Sentenced to the Arts® Project

Seton Center Art class will participate in the New Dimensions program at the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art in Kansas City, Missouri.

New Dimensions is an innovative program built on the fact that repeat visits to the Museum instill deeper, more meaningful learning experiences for students—and build a foundation for greater lifelong enjoyment of the arts! Students will learn to look at, describe and analyze works of art in the Museum's collection. Visits culminate in the creation of a multimedia project using traditional and digital media including iLife and iStopMotion software on MacBook computers.

Next month, we'll provide photos of their projects and interview them on this fantastic experience.
